LAST PLEA FOR HAVEN FOR NEW BOSS

Grand Trunk's Case in Hands of Committee—Storey Replies to New Haven Speeches

The question of the Grand Trunk and its coming to the port of Boston rests for the time being at least with the Railroad Committee at the State House.

Public hearings on the Grand Trunk bill closed last afternoon with the argument of Merrill Storey on behalf of the Grand Trunk.

"If you are not satisfied with the bill originally presented by the Grand Trunk Railway," said Mr. Storey to the Railroad Committee, "tell us what you do want. Massachusetts wants the Grand Trunk to come here. The Grand Trunk will do it. With that situation admitted, it ought to be neither impossible nor difficult for men to get together on common ground."

New Haven's "Lay Down."

The biggest surprise in the Grand Trunk movement since the Canadian road was invited to "come to Boston" a year ago by unanimous vote of the Legislature, came in what amounted to the "lay down" of the New Haven & Maine railroad before an overwhelming public audience.

Save for some men who were said to represent trade unions employed on the railroad, the only citizen who appeared in opposition to the coming of the Grand Trunk was William B. Coolidge, chief legislative counsel in Massachusetts for the Mellon company. Mr. Coolidge, as Mr. Storey phrased it, was "at once sincere and sincere."

The Railroad Committee will now consider the Grand Trunk bill from time to time in executive session. Eventually the committee will report "no objection."

While a Railroad Committee is seldom against the existing railroad, and while the present committee was generally believed to be more too friendly to the Grand Trunk, there will be increasing interest in the report of the Schoonmaker-Elliott Committee until that report is filed.

The State House committee appears to be principally interested in knowing how, in the face of the widespread Grand Trunk sentiment and the fact that the only opposition came from New Haven, comes the Schoonmaker-Elliott Committee can possibly advocate a favorable report.

Storey Closes Case.

"The legislation that we are here to see," Mr. Storey said in closing the case for the Grand Trunk, "is desired by the people of Massachusetts (as evidenced by the unanimous invitation extended last year, the chambers of commerce, the legislative city and town governments, and there isn't one of them that my friend Coolidge did not dispute yesterday afternoon and last evening with some serious reference to the manner in which his argument has been received in this state, please."

"The question is one between Massachusetts and monopoly."

"I stand here, I believe, representing the best interests of my native State. What is there on the other side? The New Haven Railroad. Somewhere in this country, somewhere in Europe, somewhere in the civilized world, politicians can be found a director or large."

Hunting for Young Man in Providence Mystery—Boy Victim Last Seen With Suspect, It's Said

PROVIDENCE, March 28.—Chief of Police Willis of North Providence obtained information today that led him to believe that before night he would have under arrest the person who lured William Mathers, Jr., into the woods in Mariaville and brutally murdered the boy.

The victim of the crime was twelve years old. He had been missing a month. The person suspected of the crime is a young man. Stories that recall the Jesse Pomeroy crime were told the police today about the suspected person.

"WILL SOON HAVE THE MURDERER."

"I have found out certain facts," said Chief Willis, "which lead me to the belief that I will soon have the murderer in my grasp."

It was found that the boy's head had been beaten into the ground with such force that there was an impression of the face to the earth.

The police learned today that the last seen of young Mathers he was in company with the young man suspected of the crime. School children said they saw the pair going in the direction of the woods, where the body was found.

When the boy disappeared he had a cheap watch in his possession. This watch has not been found. A search is being made for it.

Detectives visited the home of the victim, No. 277 Mariaville street, in an effort to get facts that might bring light on the tragedy.

The town has already taken action toward offering a reward for the arrest of the murderer.

Conner H. A. Foster began an investigation of the case today and Medical Examiner Charles A. Barker and North Providence police are assisting.

The body of the boy, who had been missing for a month, was found in the woods, a short distance from the Mariaville schoolhouse, where the boy had attended school.

Boy's Skull Crushed.

The boy's skull had been crushed, probably with a stone, and his throat had been slashed. The body was covered with bruises. A stone weighing six or seven pounds was found near the body and was believed to have been used to crush the skull.

That was shown by the condition of the skull. Bits of it were strewn about over an area of fifty feet or more. The boy's garments, even, were torn off.

The body was found about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of February 20. That was shown by the condition of the skull. Bits of it were strewn about over an area of fifty feet or more. The boy's garments, even, were torn off.

NEW YORK, March 28.—It is the opinion of Engineer William of Germany that the Canal states will make a great mistake if it does not fortify the Panama Canal thoroughly and maintain a large military force in the canal zone for far greater strength and numbers than at present contemplated, according to Colonel Goethals, chief engineer of the canal, who arrived from Berlin today.

Goethals said that he had been in contact with certain individuals who were involved in the Brandt inquiry, and he had provided them with information regarding the matter.

He also mentioned that he had been in contact with certain individuals who were involved in the Brandt inquiry, and he had provided them with information regarding the matter.

The report states that valuable city property has been illegally transferred to private ownership, the commission charges and the statement is made that W. R. Brookline Girl Wins Medal for Physical Perfection

MISS HAZEL WOODSIDE, WHO HAS BEEN ADJUDGED THE PHYSICALLY PERFECT GIRL

She Tells How Her Grandfather Began Her Exercises Before She Talked.

Every girl in the junior class at the Brookline Municipal gymnasium will strive from now forth, to attain the physical perfection of Hazel Woodside.

Hazel has been awarded a silver medal as the perfect girl for her age, so far as physical development goes. She is twelve years old. Her measurements are as follows:

Height—5 feet 7 1/2 inches.
Weight—87 pounds.
Neck—11 1/2 inches.
Waist—24 inches.
Chest expanded—31 inches.
Chest deduced—27 1/2 inches.
Forearm—14 1/2 inches.
Biceps—9 1/2 inches.
Calf—13 inches.
Thigh—19 inches.

First of 100 Girls.

Hazel was picked as the winner for best physical development after the judges had passed on a class of 100 girls from ten to fourteen years.

The girls went through a competitive drill in the Municipal Gymnasium at Brookline.

Hazel has never won contests and never will, if her mother can help it.

She has "no silly ideas about sweethearts," to quote her mother's way of expressing it.

"She is of winsome manner, frank and natural. Her eyes are blue, her hair dark wavy and her complexion pink and white. Her ambition is to be a singer."

"When I grow up," she says modestly, "I may be a singer."

Hazel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen C. Woodside of No. 48 Kent street.

Should Wed at 19. According to family record, Hazel should wed young. Her mother was only thirteen when Hazel was born. Her maternal grandfather was only sixteen when her mother was born, and, going back another generation, the grandfather's mother was thirteen when the grandfather was born.

At the age of twelve years Hazel has a great grandmother only sixty-nine years old.

The other girls in the junior class at the Brookline gym are asking Hazel how she attained the physical perfection that made her surpass all her rivals in the class. Hazel says:

"I like the drills at the gym, but I love to be outdoors. We have done times at the gym. I have done these two seasons and I am going to go as long as they will let me. I have to keep up to my studies. If I don't I can't go to the gym."

Mrs. Woodside speaks with natural pride of the development her girl has attained.

"Hazel showed remarkable muscular development when a mere baby. Before she could walk she could support herself with her hands, hanging to a broomstick. We encouraged her and it was surprising to see what she was able to do without the least strain. As a little girl she could walk on the tips of her toes. She could kick three inches higher than her head."

Plays Baseball and Football. "I was a runner and I was careful not to let Hazel overdo herself. Now she has a fine combination of health and strength. She took riding lessons at a riding academy, but we discontinued them when she wanted to ride in the streets. We did not want her to take the risk, so we bought her a bicycle."

"She plays baseball and football with the boys. She plays hockey and uses hockey skates. Last summer she learned to swim. 'Any girl who wants to become strong ought to start when a baby. My grandfather started to give me exercises before I could talk. The other things which have made me strong and which ought to make any girl strong are skating, swimming, running, horseback and bicycle riding, baseball, football and hockey.'

"She wears pommy, low-heeled shoes. She is tied by a o'clock and up at 7. She never goes out in the evening alone. She still plays with her dolls and she has no silly ideas about sweethearts. I suppose she has her difficulties at play, like other children, but she doesn't tell tales."

MARRY ME, JENNIE

And I'll be the bride of the original and only "Marry Me, Jennie" dress. This dress is made of the finest quality material and is trimmed with the latest in fashion. It is a real beauty and is a real bargain. Price $1.00. Our wholesale price direct to you 43c.

A very wide variety of other dresses at 29c to 1.48. Mail Orders Filled.

FIVE PARTS of a National Cash Register which benefit Merchants.

The Indicators

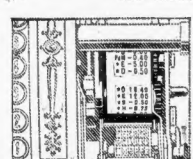

When a sale is recorded a bell rings. This draws the attention of everyone to the amount which the figures at the top of the register show. The publicity of each record helps enforce the correct handling of your money and accounts.

The Adding Counters

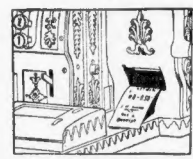

The same amount, which the indicators show, is added on total-adding wheels inside the register. This added record enables you to prevent losses.

The Sales-Strip

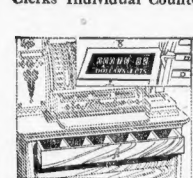

The register prints out the sales-strip the same figures which the indicators show. From it you can know every transaction occurring in your store regardless of where you may be. This printed record enables you to settle disputes and trace sales.

The Printed Receipt

This printed receipt, showing the amount of sale, goes to the customer when the sale is recorded. The receipt, in connection with the added and printed records, enables you to get all your money, to forfeit all your profits.

Clerks' Individual Counters and Cash Drawers

The individual counters tell how much each clerk sells. In connection with the separate cash drawers, they make each clerk responsible for his own transactions. You can judge the value of each clerk in your employ, because you have accurate records to measure each one's ability, honesty, accuracy and industry.

A modern National Cash Register is easy to operate, does so much and costs so little.

It will pay you to investigate how a National will benefit your business. Send for booklet.
